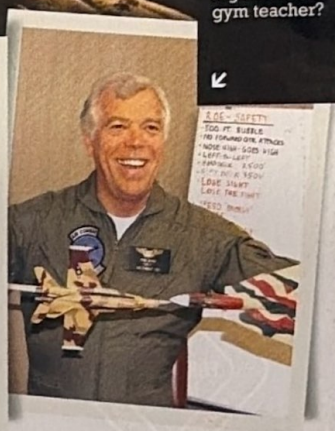
"That's right, Federline... now stand real still..."

Is that our high-school gym teacher?



SKYROCKETS IN FLIGHT!

Blow up your closest friends at dogfighting school.

Watching your buddies crash and burn usually involves [illegible] blondes, Sauza shots and [illegible] pickup lines. Want to [illegible] sorry asses an ill-fated [illegible] the bar (or at least give them something to blather about when they reach their blurry target)? Then shoot them down yourself with Air Combat USA. For $9,500, you and nine pals can do battle in the Top Gun Challenge, a series of mock dogfights and high-flying combat exercises designed to separate the nutjob aviators from the nut-dispensing flight attendants. This is no video game: You'll be busting loops, barrel rolls and high-low yo-yo maneuvers at 250 mph in a real SIAI Marchetti SF-260 fighter plane. Got the need for speed? The deluxe all-day simulation package includes an intelligence briefing, a scored mission and a jumpsuit-soiling shoot-off round to determine the overall winner. Finish in the top slot and you'll take home the coveted F-4 Phantom Gun Grip Trophy as well as a lifetime of bragging rights...but screw up just this much and you'll be flying a cargo plane full of rubber dog shit out of Hong Kong. aircombatusa.com

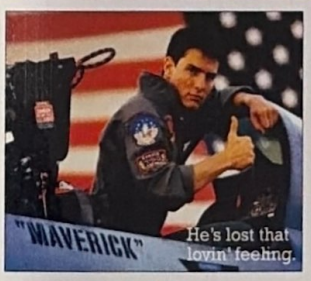
KILLER CROSSHAIRS! HOW TO ENGAGE A BOGEY



"MAVERICK" He's lost that lovin' feeling.

"IS THIS GUY SERIOUS?"

Approach head-on and fast, firing your radar-guided missiles over the horizon as soon as the bogey has been detected. If you make the kill before you see your target, you have engaged correctly. Press on.

"WELL, I'LL BE DAMNED."

If you miss, wait for visual contact to fire your heat-seeking missiles and call "Fox Two!" If you miss a second time, switch to guns and blast again. If you miss a third time, you are officially in a dogfight. Don't lose your edge!

"BOOYAKASHA!"

Do absolutely whatever it takes to get behind the bastard. Once you're in range, or "in the basket," hit him with everything you've got. Make the kill, call "Splash One!" and maneuver back into position to continue your mission. Or begin sobbing uncontrollably.