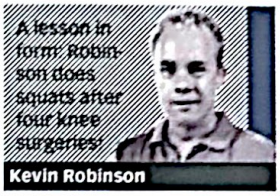
BACKSIDE BURN

Big-Air Bulk

X Games BMX champ Kevin Robinson shows you how to construct a crashproof chassis.

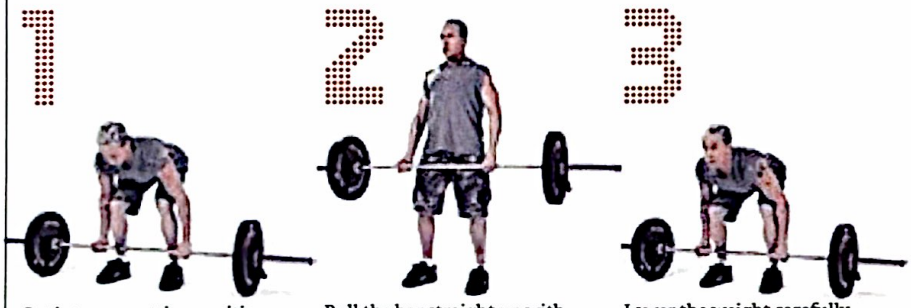


A lesson in form: Robinson does squats after four knee surgeries!
Kevin Robinson

Power Squats

1. Stand with back straight, knees bent, toes straight ahead, and feet hip width apart. Carefully lift the bar off the rack.
2. Descend until your quads are parallel to the floor with your weight distributed equally on your toes and heels. Don't fart.
3. Explode up using your quads, hamstrings, and glutes. Keep your back straight and head up. Do five sets of six.

Drop-Dead Dead Lift



1. Get into a squatting position with the bar centered over the balls of your feet. Grasp it with an overhand-underhand grip.
2. Pull the bar straight up with your legs and back, keeping it close to your body. As it passes your knees, arch backward.
3. Lower the weight carefully, keeping your eyes forward to prevent yourself from hunching over. Do three sets of six.

Weighted Bench Dip

1. Sit on a flat bench with a weight in your lap. Extend your legs onto another bench, suspending yourself by your heels.
2. Carefully lower, or dip, your upper body until your elbows are at a 90-degree angle. Make sure the plate doesn't slide off.
3. Slowly raise your upper body back into the starting position, keeping your elbows close to your body. Do three reps of 10.

FIT FOOD

Bike Bites

Eat right on contest day or eat dirt.

Ride and Shine
Egg-white omelet with broccoli, ham, and no cheese; ½ grapefruit

Midair Meal
Bananas; chocolate double-fudge Promax bar; protein shake; Instone protein pudding

Dinner for Two (Wheels)
Large bowl of pasta with red sauce; side of steamed broccoli

Text, Jeff Foss; grooming, Sacha Harford at aartistloft.com. Equipment provided by gymsource.com in N.Y.C.

FEB EXP fitness.F1.indd 1 11/29/06 4:48:05 PM