CRAIG COKER

Age: 19
Resides: Snow Summit, California
Sponsors: Line Skis, Orage, Scott USA

You've lived by Snow Summit your whole life. Ever consider becoming a meth addict like 90 percent of San Bernardino County?

Well, I'm actually moving to Mammoth in about two weeks, so I'll kind of be getting away from all that.

That sounds like quite the career move.

Yeah, I'm pretty excited about it. I've spent a lot of time at Mammoth, and I know how much better you can get by skiing there. It's on a whole different level. There are a lot more skiers to ride with there, too. Here at Summit, it's mostly snowboarders.

What do you hope to accomplish at Mammoth?

My goals are to learn as many tricks as I can, as many ways as possible. I don't like spinning anything over 900, so I want to learn all the rotations for all my tricks from 900 down—switch, switch unnatural, everything. I also want to work on nosepresses and tailpresses, stuff like that.

What will you be doing when you're not skiing?

Working as a night janitor for Mammoth Mountain.

Will your duties include replacing urinal cakes, scrubbing toilets, and soaking up vomit with sawdust?

No, it won't be anything like that. I'll basically just be mopping, vacuuming, and emptying trash cans. This way I can ski all day long and still make money. I've always wanted a job like that.—JF
