
Weekend Warrior

YOU HAVE THREE DAYS AND COUNTING...

MUD AND GUTS!

PLAY REAL-LIFE EXCITEBIKE ON THE NATION'S TOP MOTOCROSS TRACKS.

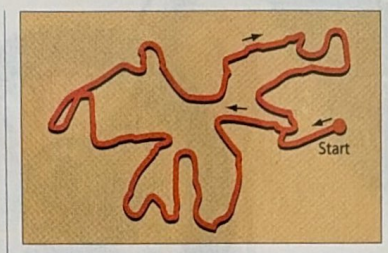
SPRING CREEK MX

Millville, Minnesota $35/day

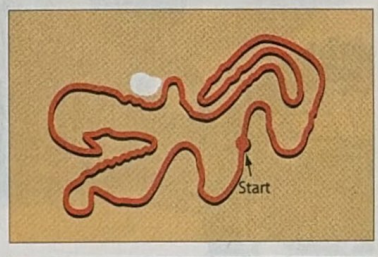
Thanks to a hearty blend of clay, sand, rock and dirt, Spring Creek is all about variables. On this winding track, you'll contend with jarring whoops and the "seven-pack," a famous succession of jumps ergonomically designed to shatter your tailbone. Oh, and there's a 105-foot booter, too. springcreekmx.com



BUDDS CREEK MX

Budds Creek, Maryland $25/day

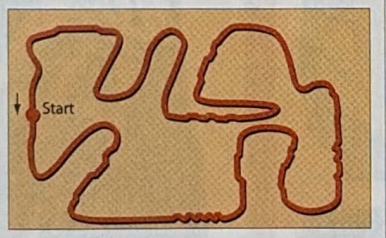
This rolling motocross utopia is packed with perfectly sculpted tabletops (the biggest is over 100 feet long) and wide, carved-out turns. Keep the Band-Aids handy for Henry Hill, an insanely steep drop-off named after the unlucky rider who sailed 70 feet past the landing and shattered his back. buddscreek.com



THUNDER VALLEY MX

Lakewood, Colorado $10/day

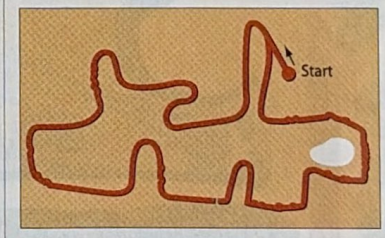
Thunder Valley is plainly visible from a nearby highway, and rubbernecking commuters rear-end each other when riders eat dirt. With a daunting 100-foot downhill jump, a pants-crapping 95-foot triple-jump and several off-camber switchbacks, this track isn't for the faint of heart. mxthundervalley.com



MILL CREEK MX

Pell City, Alabama $15/day

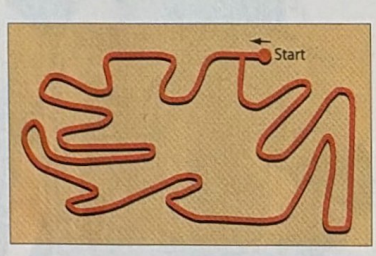
What can you expect at Mill Creek? An 80-foot step-up, a 65-foot triple-jump and two 40-foot tabletops, for starters. And then there's Ant Hill, a 30-foot embankment that is almost too steep to climb on foot, let alone ride over on a 200-pound dirt bike. Better do some conditioning. millcreekmotocross.com



MUDDY CREEK RACEWAY

Blountville, Tennessee $15/day

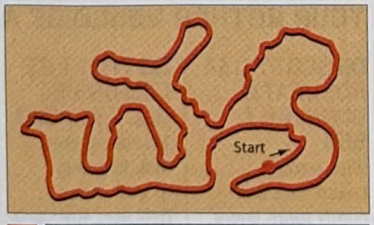
Maintain your speed (and a maddening level of concentration) at Muddy Creek and you'll be floating over 30-foot tabletops almost effortlessly. Lose your rhythm or confidence and, well, let's just say you should try to stay on point, because you'll need both for the 100-foot double-jump. victory-sports.com



REDBUD

Buchanan, Michigan $25/day

Early motocrossers invaded RedBud to practice on cartoonish features like the 90-foot ski jump (complete with a fadeaway landing) and LaRocco's Leap, a 120-foot uphill triple-jump. These monstrosities are still there, and you'll be in excellent shape if you can navigate them with an intact spine. redbudmx.com



HIGH POINT RACEWAY

Mt. Morris, Pennsylvania $10 entry, $25/race

Like most old-school motocross tracks, High Point is wide and fast with plenty of elevation changes and off-camber bends. But you'll also find exotic terrain features like the 80-foot elevator kicker, which launches riders up to eye level with spectators. racerproductions.com

Whipping more tail than a pervy high-school PE teacher.

THE CRYING GAME: HOW TO REMEDY A DISLOCATED SHOULDER

Training wheels are recommended.

1 "MY ARM FEELS FUNNY." Nowhere near a hospital? Have your injured friend lie on his back and get someone to hold him down.

2 "WHAT THE HELL ARE YOU DOING?" Wrap a sheet around his upper body to stabilize his torso, grasping the ends on his uninjured side.

3 "SO, IS THIS GONNA HURT?" Firmly pull on his wounded limb, rotating the elbow outward and back like a pitcher's windup.

4 "SWEET FUCK! THERE IS NO GOD!" Brace yourself for his blood-curdling screams as the humerus bone pops violently back into place.

PHOTOGRAPHY: (OPENING PHOTO) SIMON CUDBY. ILLUSTRATIONS: GARY BRANDHAM.